At the time of the arrest of the defendant, constable Fisher feigned drunkenness, and succeeded in cliciting some etatements from the defendant, and afterwards ar rested him. One of the counsel now ergaged in the case in the Circuit Court took occasion to comment on the statement made in the Police Roport at the time, remarking that "the affair was blazoned before the public in the Sentinel. and that a whole column was devoted to puffling the officer," (Fisher.) The namesake of the illustrious statesman (Webster) is in error in that assertion. The reports were short, one in noticing the arrest, the other the examination of the defendant in the Police Court, but in neither was the officer puffed. The act of the defendant was called at the time a "plant game," i.e. studing an article, then, when a reward isoffered, putting the article in some place and directing another where to find it so as to get the reward. It was quite evident that the defendant had stolen the watch, had tried to put the theft onto another man, and this was so clear at the time that if the counsel will turn to the filter of the Sentinel of November, 1854, he will see that the other was exenerated. Man Doos. —We have heard several rumors of attle, horses and even children being bitten, in Verons and several of the Western towns of this Verona and several of the Western towns of this county, during the past week or ten days. A son of Mr. Moore, of the above town, aged 10 years has suffered in this way, and is said to be now urder the influence of hydrophobia. A correspondent of the Journal call attention to the fact and demand a capitation tax on the canine race. A de-capitation wer upon them would appear to us the best remedy, and we keppe it will be adopted against the "curs of low degree" which, besides being a nuisance, are it seems a dangerous element in the community.—[Madison Democrat.

Tale book ross, which has been growing steadmy a drappilly during the last four years, has this year attained a roughtude that deserves inon than a piece og comment. The following statement made up from the books of the principal densers, mad abow the mumber and aggregate weight of the Hogs purchased and packed in this anarket, during the current season, to date:

39 459 7,770,438 2 600 700,500  + i He'i, Winterster, 33,452 8,479,933 lbe final Number 3 A ringe Weight 2,57% lts.

It is set, besides, a number of small lots, parthese and pot up by individual dealers, which would savel the aggregate to full 35,000 Hogs --The conter above given is equivalent to 42,399 bbac of the product of the Hog, against 27,525 bids this time last year. The average weight of the whole is a little over 250 pounds I and the quality the ght to be equal, at least, if not supemore what can be found in any other market. The g cut bolk of these Hoge has been purchased at, or under, $1,00 per hundred; the market time not he vine gone above that figure till within the last few days. Only six years ago we had come at it ik from the States, South and East of is, for Home Consumption. Now, we not only same tuning a for the large home demand, but have a very heavy surplus for Export. The packing section is not yet over, though it is scarely probable that more than two or three thousand Hogs will be and d to the number already on hand.

A HEART-RENDING Class, -We find the following in the local columns of the New Orleans Crescent of the 19th that :

Crescent of the 19th inst:

Sampson Richardson, a creols negro, committed swide in his room at No. 55 St Petri-st, in the First District, early on Saturday moraling, by cutting his throat with a rasor. The Coroner's verdict in the case was thathe committed the act while in a state of temporary insanity. It appears that he was a slave belonging to the succession of the late Alex Mc-Reever, and was advertised to be sold at suction on the 20th inst. Being a smart morey-making negro, he had earned and entrusted to some man's keeping the sum of $1,200 with which his freedom was to be purchased when the sale should take place. His agent proved recreant to his trust, and upon discovering it he became crary. He could read and write, and appars were found in his room centaining written ravings about the loss of his money. Before killing himself, he took his heat aut of clothes from his armoir, and wrote a request on a slate that he about do be intered on these his armoir, and wrote a request on a state that he should be buried in them.

HIGHER LAW .- The editor of the Springfield Mass.) Republican thus confesses to the "Higher Law" doctrine:

"We have great respect for Law. We mean to abide by it. But it is not the perfection of human reason, nor the beginning or end of all things; though it be one of the great instrumentalities of good order and civilized society. We believe there is something besides, and something higher. We are not ashamed to say that we betieve in a higher law. We would not resist law, unless we were prepared for rebellion or revolution. But we would refuse to obey or to execute some laws: and the fugitive slave law is one of them. Coloridge was not much of a lawyer, but he was something of a man, and he says: "with our grandfathers, 'the man who squared his conscience by the law' was a common synonym for a wretch without any conscience at all." A great many crimes have beer committed in the same and by the naturements of the law. And yet its value is inestimable, and it should be sustained and shided by whenever the sacrifice is not greater than the blessings it ascoures." er Law" doctrine :

The Madison Argus re-publishes an arti-cle from the News and by a ludicrous mistake of the types in transposing two letters in the word danger, makes a sentence read thus: "But when the mob spirit penetrates the judicistry, and vio-lence and outrage are committed under the forms of law, the gender becomes imminent and impe-riously calls for the union of every one who loves his country, her institution and laws!"— [News.

Of course the Argus could'nt possibly have intended such a mistake, when quoting these "imperious calls" of the News.

School Land Mohopoly—Who is Respon-It has been attempted by the organs of the sidministration to shield the School Land Commissioners from any responsibility in the immense to monopolities of that had obtained during the past senson. They claim that the fault is not of the Commissioners, but of the law. We have repeatedly shown that the Commissioners have power under the law to refuse to sell whenever they think it expedient. The supporters of the administration, claim that the last legislature manifested its approval of land monopoly by refusing to pass a bill brought before it restricting the sale of these lands to actual settlers.

Let us now examine the records and ascertain what are the facts in the case. On page 608, Senste Journal, 1854 we find the following:

CIRCUIT COURT. Jungs Heberli, Parsiding.

The court was occupied the whole forenoon i the trial of John Foster for largeny in a dwelling house, in stealing a watch in November last year. The evidence was substantially the same as given in the Police Court, and published in the Sentinel at the time. At the time of the arrest of the defendant, constable Fisher feigned drunkenness, and succeeded in cliciting some statements from the defendant, and afterwards arrested him. One of the counsel now engaged in the case in the Circuit Court took occasion t comment on the statement made in the Police Report at the time, remarking that "the affair was blezoned before the public in the Sentinel, and that a whole column was devoted to puffling the officer," (Fisher.) The namesake of the illustrious statesman (Webster) is in error in that assertion. The reports were short, one in noticing the arrest, the other the examination of the fendant in the Police Court, but in neither was the officer puffed. The act of the defendant was called at the time a " plant game," i.e. stealing an article, then, when a reward is offered, putting the article in some place and directing another where to find it so as to get the reward. It was quite evident that the defendant had stolen the watch, had tried to put the theft onto another man, and this was so clear at the time that if the ounsel will turn to the files of the Sentinel of lovember, 1854, he will see that the other was exonerated. For the benefit of a counsel who openly makes a charge of this kind in court, when a reporter has no chance to reply, we would state that the marked difference between a lawyer and a reporter is this, that the latter must state facts, with an eye to morality and justice, the former may state anything he pleases, with an eye to the acquittal of his client.

Foster was acquitted, the Jury remaining out till after dark; and thus, upon evidence plain and lirect, a scoundrel, who has spent two thirds of his time in State Prisons is again turned at large. to follow stealing. One of the jurors, when they first came in, stated that they stood 10 for acquital, 2 for guilty. The Judge sent them back again remarking that, if they could not agree upon that evidence, no Jury could. In a little while they came in having agreed to an acquiral.

Fire at Chicago. Chicago, Feb. 27. A few minutes past 8 o'clock last evening, a fire broke out in the extensive picture and cabinet manufactory of Ferris & Boyd, on the south side of Van Buren St., between Market and Franklin, The materials within were of the most combustible character, and in 20 minutes from the time of the alarm, nearly everything on the premises but a few standing timbers and a their receipt. small dwelling-house east of the manufactory, belonging to one of the firm, were consumed. The flames were driven directly across the street north, and communicated with a dwelling house standing alone, occupied by Thomas Welch, a shingle maker. Nothing saved. The fire scread so rapidly in Ferris & Boyd's establishment, that nothing was saved from it. Their
